Claims Consultant Vacancy

Salary Banding £24,000 - £31,000k per annum Working hours per week: 35

Additional Benefits: 29 days holiday, 35 hour week, annual bonus, subsidised pension scheme and staff discount on Aviva products.

Role Description

Our Claims Consultants are required to assess new and existing Disability Claims and make a decision on validity based on the evidence sought and received.

An essential part of the role is ensuring we treat our customers fairly and with respect by being fair and consistent in our decisions.

The department currently deals with Individual & Group Income Protection policies, Third Party Long Term Disablement Schemes & Group Critical Illness policies.

Key elements of the role are:

- Take responsibility for the individual case management of a portfolio of Disability Claims.
- Obtain appropriate evidence for each claim, based on the individual's own discretion and acting on evidence. Such evidence will include obtaining information from medical professionals, accountants, HM Revenue and Customers, employers and our external suppliers.
- Speak to customers at new claim and review stage to update them regularly on their claim. Discuss, in-depth, the sensitive details of their claim, their plans for returning to work and our decision on their claim.
- Evaluate any spend on a claim against potential future benefit outlay.
- Take responsibility for self-development issues. Be open to and build on regular and spontaneous feedback from experienced colleagues.
- Develop effective and positive relationships between teams, other internal members of staff and relevant external
