Dave Thompson - Senior Claims Manager

Role: Experienced Claims Assessors or Senior Claims Assessors

Location: Edinburgh/Home working

Salary: Competitive salary based on experience (£45,000 - £60,000)

About this opportunity

We’re currently looking to recruit experienced Claims Assessors for our Claims Team which forms part of the Lloyds Banking Group Insurance, Pension and Investment Chief Operating Office. We play a vital role in supporting delivery of the group purpose of Helping Britain Prosper by efficiently and effectively supporting customers through the claims process which is a key moment of truth in their lives.

A culture of trusting our colleagues to do the right thing and driving continuous improvement encourages our colleagues to bring their best self to work each day. Interactions with our customers must be of the highest quality ensuring clarity of information, empathy and compassion throughout the claim journey.

What you'll be doing

You’ll be passionate about putting people first to ensure we listen and care for people as individuals. You’ll have a keen eye for detail and be able to competently assess critical information to arrive at the right outcome.

You’ll be responsible for operating within clearly defined quality measures and personal authority limits. As well as being able to demonstrate and display excellent communication skills along with the ability to manage the customer’s expectations throughout the claims process.

This role includes telephony based customer contact and requires candidates who are proactive, can work to tight deadlines and possess excellent decision making skills.

You'll have a passion for driving your career growth and commitment to working towards the expected standard, this means proactively seeking learning opportunities from our technical team and Senior Assessors.

The role is hybrid based within Fountainbridge Office in Edinburgh with an expectation for 40% of the working week based in the office with colleagues, however we can consider full time home working for remote candidates who are not based locally. Our department is open Monday to Friday 9 to 5 and you will be expected to be flexible within these times to a total of 35hrs a week.

What you'll need

- A minimum of 3 years' experience within a Health Claims environment covering a range of products
- Versatile and competent on a mixture of claim types (including critical illness, terminal illness and preferably income protection benefit) with full sign off and Claims Authority Limit.
- Ability to manage own case portfolio and adherence to personal Claims Authority Limits whilst adhering to business timescales and needs.
- Ability to mentor less senior colleagues and leading their development and training.
- Meeting targets including accuracy, quality and volume to an agreed service level.

About working for us

Our focus is to ensure we're inclusive every day, and build an organisation that reflects modern society and celebrates diversity in all its forms. We want our people to feel that they belong and can be their best, regardless of background, identity or culture.

We were one of the first major organisations to set goals on diversity in senior roles, create a menopause health package, and a dedicated Working with Cancer initiative. And it's why we especially welcome applications from under-represented groups.

We're disability confident. So if you'd like reasonable adjustments to be made to our recruitment processes, just let us know.

We also offer a wide-ranging benefits package, which includes:

- A generous pension contribution of up to 15%
- A discretionary annual performance-related bonus
- Share schemes including free shares
- Benefits you can adapt to your lifestyle, such as discounted shopping
- 28 days' holiday, with bank holidays on top
- A range of wellbeing initiatives and generous parental leave policies

If you're excited by the thought of becoming part of our team, get in touch.

We'd love to hear from you!
