

Specialist holistic workplace assessments for employees with visual impairment

Visualise Training and Consultancy offers specialist workplace assessments for employees with visual impairments to enable them to retain their jobs and reduce income protection and other insurance claims.

Assessments are carried out by Dan Williams across the whole of the UK and Ireland and as Dan has a visual impairment, employees benefit from his lived and professional experiences and empathetic approach to the challenges they face.

Every day, 250 people start to lose their sight; there are currently two million people in the UK living with visual impairment and this is estimated to increase to four million by 2050, but with the correct workplace adjustments and support, sight loss needn't mean job loss.

A workplace assessment will identify:

- Challenges an employee is facing
- Assistive technology, resources, equipment and training needs
- Impact of lighting, signage and office layout
- Reasonable adjustments
- Mobility to, from and within work
- Referrals to community support services
- Requirements for a human support worker
- Emotional support and coping strategies

Testimonial from a client who claimed income protection for four years prior to returning to work following our assessment:

In all honesty I did not have particularly high expectations for the Visualise assessment, maybe due to scepticism from previous experiences with other organisations. However, from the get-go, you and your team made me feel comfortable, supported and more than just another client.

Not only did you do this along with providing some useful resources in the visually impaired world including your extensive knowledge but then continued to support me well after your responsibility ended. I was getting little to no support from other organisations and you went (and continue to go) truly above and beyond to support me at a difficult time in my life, being new to sight loss.

I cannot thank you enough. George, Customer Service Adviser
