About Tony Helliwell

Tony Helliwell is a registered psychiatric and general nurse with over twenty years clinical experience. Tony qualified in 1982 in psychiatry from Lanarkshire and in 1984 in general nursing from Tayside and went on to graduate in counselling and therapy in 1990. His varied experience has incorporated general psychiatry, PTSD, addictions, eating disorders, peri-natal and adolescent psychiatry and he has extensive experience in clinical management within the acute care setting.

Tony transferred his skills into the Insurance industry in 1998, working for Unum Provident, one of the largest providers of Income Protection in the world. During his time there, Tony set up home nurse assessment visits which greatly improved the management of difficult psychiatric and subjective claims.

WHY DO HOME VISITS?

Psychiatric claims are some of the most difficult to manage, both in the short and long term. THINCS deals exclusively with psychiatric/psychological and subjective cases including CFS/PVF/ME, which according to current figures makes up the majority of all benefit payments.

The purpose of the home visiting service is to provide some form of validity to a claim where there has been difficulty in gaining sufficient medical information from either the GP or specialist. Carrying out a nurse visit provides added value to the management of such claims in a number of ways:

- It helps establish a holistic view of the claimant and their social circumstances.
- It can identify cases where there is a need for specific treatment not already in place.
- It creates the opportunity to gauge whether rehabilitation intervention is appropriate for the claimant's current presentation.
- It helps to establish claimant's level of commitment to their treatment programme and can positively influence their level of commitment to treatment.
- It can be used to explore a non-medical resolution to a claim.
- It can identify possible solutions to enable claimants to move on in circumstances where they are in danger of becoming "stuck" in a situation where dependence on benefits may obstruct recovery.

THE THREE A'S

THE BENEFITS OF USING THE SERVICES I OFFER ARE ENCAPSULATED IN THE THREE A'S.....

AVAILABILITY

I'm available to speak to claims managers anytime during normal office hours to discuss the content of a report or progress with a case where I have offered advice

AFFABILITY

The ability to engage with both customers and their clients. This is especially important for group customers where the flow of information must remain consistent for both parties and that information is pitched at the correct level for the audience.

ACCOUNTABILITY

There are no associates working within THINCS and therefore I am accountable for everything that is presented. This allows me to work closer with my clients to develop a professional service which suits their particular needs.
