- Manage claims from end to end, including all steps, taking responsibility for all customer communication, keeping the customer informed of progress and providing one point of contact so that customer satisfaction is maximised and expectations met.

Work Management Practices

- Process claims within claims guidelines so that quality and consistency across the area can be maintained, adhering to service standards and processes.

Regulatory Framework

- Adhere to current financial, FOS, regulatory, legal and industry guidelines in processing and assessing claims, including DPA.

Handle Inbound and Outbound Customer Contacts

- Deal with all aspects of customer communication by taking and making calls, dealing with letters and emails, and using the most appropriate method of keeping customers informed, eg: phone, letter, email, text, so that unnecessary incoming contact is minimised.

Customer Communication

- Liaise with internal and external customers and third parties in a professional, friendly and efficient manner in order to obtain information.
- Ensure that customers' expectations of service are met whilst providing a positive impression of Legal and General.
- Utilise customer focused language.

Appeals and Complaints

- Identify appeals and complaints and take ownership for trying to resolve them with urgency, so that complaints are acted upon quickly, root causes are escalated and customer satisfaction is achieved.

- Where it is not possible to resolve, pass complaint to authorised complaint handler without delay to ensure compliance with complaints response time limits.

Supporting Your Team

- Take responsibility for supporting your team by deputising as needed.
- Contribute to claims projects or other team or department initiatives by sharing knowledge and ideas and giving feedback to help develop the way others work and support the Claims area to ensure the area works as one team.

The Bigger Picture

- Gain understanding of industry and customer expectations of Claims Products and service.
- Use this knowledge to challenge existing work practices in an appropriate way by identifying and taking steps to improve service through liaising with team managers or other colleagues, and recording accurate.

Skills Required

- Insurance products and policy conditions experience
- Extensive understanding of different Claim events
- Those with Critical Illness, Terminal Illness or Death Claims Medical Assessing skills will have a definite advantage
