Senior Claims Specialist

Munich Re UK and Ireland Life, Claims Department, London

Are you looking to apply your well established protection claims expertise to a new challenge? Would you be interested in a role where the clients, actuaries, underwriters, medical officers and client managers of one of the world's leading reinsurers look to you for guidance, advice and support on a range of claims related topics?

The successful candidate would report into the UK and Ireland Head of Claims and form a key part of a small team of technical claims experts responsible for making sure the right claims decisions are made at the right time and in the right way. You would do this by assessing formally referred claims cases and through your involvement in: the development of claims philosophy, client training, internal and external audit, data analysis, product development and research.

You will be working with a wide range of UK and Irish clients supporting and advising them on large, complex, disputed and challenging claims. While focussing on Life, Critical Illness (CI), and Income Protection (IP) business, you may also apply your skills to Long Term Care and Health/PMI claims. This is a full time permanent role based in our London office with some potential for flexible working hours and location.

Key elements of the role:

- Working with claims specialists, actuaries and medical officers around the globe to develop new products, new approaches and new ways of managing risk.
- Visiting clients in the UK and Ireland to discuss claims topics within the context of the wider business and the market.
- Handling large and/or complex cases and technical queries submitted by our clients with a focus on Life, CI and IP.
- Carrying out internal and external (client) quality assurance and reviews.
- Designing and delivering technical claims training workshops for clients.
- Presenting Munich Re's ideas, research and technical understanding at wider industry events and forums.
- Involvement in research initiatives including Design Thinking based development work.

What you can offer:

- Extensive experience of technical claims decision making across Life, CI and IP developed at an insurance, reinsurance or TPA office.
- Experience of disputed case handling (FOS/FSO, legal challenges, mediated settlements etc.).
- Proven ability to deliver interactive and effective training on technical claims topics.
- Experience of providing technical claims input to product and policy development work.
- The ability to research, analyse, draw conclusions and make recommendations across claims related topics.
- Excellent communication, relationship management and negotiation skills.
- A well organised and flexible working style with excellent task and time management skills.

What we offer: a generous, comprehensive and flexible benefits package in addition to a competitive basic salary. This includes a non-contributory pension, 25 days holiday (with ability to buy or sell 5 days), insurances including Life, CI, IP & PMI and a leisure scheme contribution that can be used towards e.g. gym membership.
